New food hub nourishing community

By Chad Ingram

A crowd of about 100 assembled outside the Minden Food Centre on Newcastle Street for an official opening celebration Oct. 3.

The centre, which is a project between the Minden Food Bank and the Arcadia Masonic Lodge, has been operating for a number of months.

The 5,000-square foot facility not only serves as the quarters for the Minden Food Bank, it is a food hub, where food can be stored before it is shipped to other food banks. It also houses a community kitchen where cooking classes are given and frozen meals are prepared by volunteers.

Mason Barry Robb said the project was a huge accomplishment for a rural lodge.

"It was an idea conceived because of both the needs of the food bank and the masonic hall," Robb said, crediting Steve Berry and past food bank board chairwoman Barbara Walford-Davis for their vision in bringing the project to fruition.

The food bank was looking for new home with more space and the Masons needed to do some work on their building.

"The foundation on our lodge was beginning to fail," said Mason Gareth Kellet, explaining the building was constructed in 1937. "We wondered, could the two parties come together."

The project was made possible through a $150,000 grant from the Ontario Trillium Foundation and a $150,000 loan from the Haliburton County Development Corporation.

"It was a special opportunity to get involved with a not-for-profit," HCDC manager Andy Campbell told the crowd.

Along with the loan, HCDC also provided a $20,000 grant to purchase equipment.

"When I look around at this building, I'm just so delighted to see the investment we've made," said Jack Brezina of the Ontario Trillium Foundation. "I watched that food bank move from place to place."

Brezina, who owned and published the Minden Times for more than 20 years, said it was nice to see the food bank find such a permanent home.

The Minden Food Bank started out as cupboard for those who might need it at St. Paul's Anglican Church in 1993.

"It quickly became clear this was not big enough for the growing need," said food bank manager Joanne Barnes, explaining that food storage was then moved to lower floor of the church, essentially constituting the beginning of the food bank.

From there it would move into the Valu-Mart plaza and then to the old IGA building which no longer exists, and then into the plaza along Bobcaygeon Road where Remedy pharmacy is located.

"This is another example of our community, that we do things collaboratively," said Minden Hills Reeve Brent Devolin. "It's fortunate that we have a tradition of doing this."

Minden Hills gave $10,000 to the project.

MPP Laurie Scott was also in attendance, giving congratulations and applauding Haliburton County for being a community that looks after its own.

Robb also thanked the many volunteers and contractors who made the project possible. The Arcadia Masonic Lodge has been operating in Minden since 1896.

Classical fun!

Comedy night to take care of pain in the Asperger's

By Jenn Watt

Carolyn Scott's experience with Haliburton was so positive, she wants to sing it from the rooftops – and in a way she is.

Scott, a Toronto-based actor, is putting on a special rendition of Autism is a Pain in the Aspergers on Oct. 17 as a fundraiser for Community Living.

She's running the evening of music and comedy as a kind of thank you letter to the community.

After Scott's local high school in Toronto was unable to accommodate her son, who has autism, she and her husband began looking for an alternative.

"We went to the high school there to talk to them about what they had going on for kids on the spectrum and it was perfect," she says.

Scott and her husband Brian Gibson have a place in Haliburton and her parents have a cottage in Minden.

"He was up there for five months this past year and he just thrived. And it was because it was just accepted. That was the hardest hurdle for a parent of somebody on the spectrum is trying to find inclusion," she says.

A school in Toronto was found that could accommodate Scott's son this year, but she is grateful for the support Haliburton Highlands Secondary School gave. To show that gratitude, she approached special education teacher Bruce Griffith about what she could do to give back. He said Community Living needed money to pay to transport clients to and from the pool.

The title of the show, Autism is a Pain in the Aspergers, generated a bit of controversy in the past, but Scott says humour is all about getting taboo topics out in the open.

"The reason I did it is to create dialogue because it has autism and Asperger's in the title and the two are not mutually exclusive. Autism itself is a spectrum of behaviours, but going from the lowest to the highest Asperger's is part of the highest functioning of the spectrum," she says.

Autism is a disorder of brain development that can affect speech, behaviour and social interaction to varying degrees.

Scott has been an actor for the last 35 years working with Second City and on musical theatre productions for much of that time. Along the way, she has met some talented actors and comedians, some of whom will be at the show at the Dominion.

Canadian comedians/actors Kevin Frank, Neil Crone, Robin Duke, Marilyn Smith and the band Glendale One will perform during the evening in what is billed as "an all-inclusive, comedy-infused, music-filled extravaganza."

To join in the fun, purchase a ticket for $20 at DominionHotelPub.ca, at the Dominion Hotel in Minden, Organic Times in Minden or Community Living in Haliburton. You can also get tickets at the door. The show is Saturday, Oct. 17 and starts at 8 p.m.

No need to thank me

Living Large

Humour by Steve Galea

Now that the billowing smoke has finally cleared from the outdoors turkey fryer, I think it's time we get a little more realistic about Thanksgiving.

Sure it's nice to romanticize and suggest we're grateful for just about everything, but anyone who has ever given this any thought knows that there are certain things we are well within our rights not to be thankful for. I'd argue it is even therapeutic to say so. With that in mind, here are 10 things I'm not thankful for.

1. The SOB who came up with the idea of income tax. I dislike this person so much that I feel we should actually erect a national monument for him or her so that we can throw eggs at it. The only problem is national monuments use taxpayers' money.
2. Those people who heard the idea on income tax and said, "Why not? It won't last long and I'm confident our government will spend our money wisely."
3. Water that is higher than the top of my boots. Actually, almost anything that is higher than the top of my boots. Cash, jewels or a pirate's treasure would be the exception.
4. The guy who invented auto-correct. What a controlling batch he turned out to be.
5. The fact that pants with my inseam can only be found in the kids' section – even though those with my waist size can't.
6. That person who points out I have 11 items in the 10 item or less check out line. They have no jurisdiction to do that, especially if one of their items is grapes.
7. The fact that I now have to put a second mortgage on my house to afford a really good steak, while they practically give kale away. It's further proof the world isn't fair.
8. The rise of karaoke occurring roughly at the same time hearing aids were perfected.
9. The fact that deer choose to eat expensive shrubs rather than weeds.
10. People who tell you everything we need to go back to "the old ways" and then provide evidence by Googling it on one of several devices they carry.

Closing up the cottage: safety tips

By Jenn Watt

Ensuring the cottage is properly closed up for winter can protect property from damage and from thieves. When you decide to come to the Haliburton Highlands for the last time until next year (or even if you intend to be away for a prolonged period), there are several things you should make sure to do.

According to the OPP, "cottages and seasonal homes are most vulnerable to thieves from the week following Thanksgiving to the weeks prior to Victoria Day, especially if the owners are not using them for fall, winter or spring getaways."

To avoid becoming a target, police advise property owners to remove valuables, firearms, food and alcohol from the premises. Make sure to lock doors and windows and draw blinds and curtains closed. Lock up boats and all-terrain vehicles, remove the track and hide the key from the snowmobile.

Police also advise property owners to have a permanent resident check in on the property while away.

Norm Barry, owner of Cottage Check and Hot Tub Maintenance, has been monitoring area cottages for the last seven years.

He said one of the key things to do when leaving your seasonal property is to make sure the heat is at 55°F (12°C), even though the temptation is to set the heat just above the freezing point.

"It gives you a buffer if anything goes wrong," he says, explaining the house wouldn't hit the freezing mark as quickly should the power go out or fuel run dry.

Barry checks on cottages on a weekly or bi-weekly basis ensuring that the fuel tank is full, the water is off, all doors and windows are secure and no one has been trespassing.

He says it's crucial that water be correctly drained from the dwelling before locking it up. Even a bit of water trapped in the pipes can freeze, causing the pipes to burst.

Hydro One also advises cottage owners to drain their water tank. "Remember to turn off the power supply to the water heater before draining the tank to avoid damage to the heating element," a press release from Hydro One says.

All appliances, water heater and electrical room heaters should be shut down before the main switch is turned off. For those who leave electricity on, the power supply to the major appliances should be turned off at the main panel. Power to any space heaters should be off as well.

Four hands on one piano

On Sunday, October 25th, the Haliburton Concert Series will present duo pianists Robert Kortgaard and Peter Tiefenbach in the final concert of its 2015 season. The concert takes place at 7:30 p.m. in the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion.

These wonderful pianists will perform a concert of music that will include Maurice Ravel's Mother Goose Suite, Khatchaturian's Sabre Dance, Grieg's Wedding Day at Troldhaugen, as well as music by Grainger, Poulenc, Dvorak, Prokofieff, Rachmaninoff, to name a few. It promises to be a wonderful concert of music for four hands on one piano.

Tickets are available from June Smith (705-457-3272, june.smith705@gmail.com). Adults are $30 and students are $10. We are grateful to the Ontario Arts Council for their support which allows us to keep ticket prices reasonable.

Pinestone to host haunted house

By Angelica Ingram

Ghouls, ghosts and goblins will be sauntering the halls of Pinestone Resort and Conference Centre this Halloween for a day full of activities for the whole family.

And let's not forget the zombies.

Some of Haliburton's most popular Halloween events have found their way to the resort on County Road 21, as Pinestone hosts Terror From Wonderland Road, the second annual Zombie Walk and the Zombie After Party.

Organized by Pinestone's general manager John Teljeur and event founder Cathy Barnett, the events are sure to bring out the fright for people both young and old.

"We approached [Cathy] earlier this summer on the possibility of working together," said Teljeur. "The long and short of it is to put all the events under one roof."

A haunted house type experience, Terror From Wonderland Road will be moving "underground" to a spooky corridors of the resort, where kids and adults will be frightened by the sights that they see.

The experience will start at 1 p.m. on the Saturday and go until 10 p.m. A $10 donation or food donation is required.

"This is a rain or shine event," he said.

The Zombie Walk will also take place on the resort's premises, with the gathering starting at 2:30 p.m. Activities such as zombie make-up and more will take place from 2:30 to 4 p.m., with the official walk getting underway at 4 p.m. This event is open to all ages.

Then at 9 p.m. the zombies are welcome to attend the after party, with live music taking place in the ballroom. The party is open to those 19 years or older.

All events require a food donation for entry, said Teljeur. Donations are going towards area food banks.

"It's all about the food banks," said Teljeur.

All three events are now an annual tradition in Haliburton, something Teljeur is hoping will continue.

"I know the event will be well attended," he said. "What we want to do eventually is make it a big weekend event." For more information visit www.haliburtonzombiewalk.com or search Haliburton Zombie Walk on Facebook.

Wills and firearms

Greg Cholkan
The Law Talkin' Guy

Administering an estate can be difficult – especially if the deceased owned firearms. If you're an estate trustee (executor) consider the following:

When do I take possession of a deceased's property?

As an estate trustee, you take possession of a deceased's property immediately upon their death. So if they had a gun, you take possession of it as soon as they die.

What if I don't have a firearms licence? Or if the gun is a restricted firearm and I'm only allowed to possess non-restricted firearms? Won't I get in trouble? After all, isn't it illegal to possess a firearm without a proper licence?

Section 91 of the Criminal Code states that every person commits an offence who possesses a firearm without being the holder of (a) a licence under which the person may possess it and (b) in the case of a prohibited firearm or a restricted firearm, a registration certificate for it. So, yes, it is illegal to possess a firearm without a licence. But there are several exceptions to this rule. One of these allows people to possess firearms for a "reasonable period" of time provided that they "lawfully" dispose of them – so you can fulfil your administrative duties without a licence.

So as long as I'm an estate trustee, I'm doing everything by the book?

No, not necessarily. You still need to be extremely careful. Here are just some of the issues to keep in mind: there are rules and regulations that deal with the proper storage, transportation and display of firearms; you must register as quickly as possible any restricted or prohibited firearms if the deceased did not have registration certificates; firearms cannot be sold to someone who 1) isn't properly licensed 2) has an apparent mental illness or 3) is impaired by drugs or alcohol. You must also make sure that the new owner of the firearm has the necessary Possession and Acquisition or Possession Only Licence.

How can I make sure I'm following the rules?

These laws can be pretty complicated. You should be familiar with the Criminal Code, the Firearms Act and general firearm regulations to (remember what the Criminal Code says!) lawfully administer the estate. If you're an estate trustee who has taken possession of a firearm, and there's any doubt in your mind as to what you should do, get legal advice. You don't need to be charged with a criminal offence at an already stressful time.

Foodies roam the county with Roving Lunch Club

The first Friday of every month, dozens of diners descend on restaurants across the county looking to try something new and chat with friends.

The Roving Lunch Club, an initiative of Community Support Services, picks one venue a month bringing with them between 40 and 80 people.

"The Roving Lunch Club was to tap into another clientele [than Diner's Club]," says Brigitte Gebauer, co-ordinator of volunteer resources. Many of those who attend the lunches are part of the CSS volunteer base.

"We have a lot of people who also ... are able to take their neighbours who aren't as able to get out and about," she says.

Meals are usually between $15 and $25 (including tax and tip) each and include at least three courses with a choice of main dishes.

Last week, the club converged on Rhubarb in Carnarvon, but they've gone to all corners of the county.

Participation is on a first-come first-served basis, meaning if you want a seat you need to call CSS ahead of time to reserve your spot.

Besides being a great time with delicious food, the Roving Lunch Club also brings exposure to area restaurants.

"I know a lot of people they've been to places they'd never been there before and because they went through the Roving Lunch Club they went back," says Gebauer.

To get on the list, give CSS a call at 705-457-2941.

Volunteer Fair coming soon

In about two weeks, the Haliburton County Volunteer Fair will be happening at the high school in Haliburton. Booths will be set up in the school gym from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 17.

The event brings together area organizations looking for volunteers and people looking for a way to give back.

Organizations wanting a booth should give Brigitte Gebauer a call at CSS: 705-457-2941.

Organizers are hoping those planning to attend will call Canoe FM to let them know in order to determine how much food to order. 705-457-1009 (Yes, there will be refreshments!)

Skate park needs your votes

By Jenn Watt

Haliburton Junction Skate Park needs online community support if it is to win the grand prize in the Aviva Community Fund competition.

Dysart et al has already been actively fundraising to improve the skate park on Maple Avenue, which has poor drainage and worn structures, and is hoping to get a financial boost from the contest.

More than $18,000 has already been raised in the community toward the $75,000 to $100,000 needed.

According to Andrea Mueller, recreation program co-ordinator, the money will be used to pour new concrete at the current site and expand its footprint as well as improve drainage.

"Right now water pools there after heavy rain," she said.

Dysart also wants to build concrete structures to replace the wooden ones, which are only a few years old, but have already started to deteriorate.

Mueller has been soliciting advice from local kids who were to meet with her last week and professional plans have been drawn up. "If we get more money, we'd like lighting as well," she said.

If Dysart got the full amount and money was left over, they would like to add outdoor gym equipment.

"The local gym recently closed and people are looking for affordable ways to exercise. It is imperative that we make improvements to our park space. The park has a beautiful setting overlooking Head Lake. There is a playground, but the equipment is limited to young children," the online entry says.

"It's been something that's been thrown around," Mueller said of the idea of gym equipment. "We want to see more happen in the park."

Improving the skate park means providing better equipment for youth in the community. To keep young families in Haliburton, there needs to be things for their kids to do.

"I think we have a lack of facilities for youth. ... If you don't play hockey, what do you do?"

The township hopes to raise enough money to do the construction on the skate park by April of this coming year.

The voting period lasts from now until Oct. 23 at 4 p.m. You can vote once every day. To vote, go to: www.avivacommunityfund.org and search "Haliburton." Then click on the campaign and follow the prompts.

The ideas with the most votes in each of the categories (the skate park is in the community health category) will become finalists.

The top 30 finalists in each category are reviewed by Aviva Community Fund judges, who choose the winners. Small idea winners can receive $50,000 and big idea winners receive $100,000.

Another grand prize, called the Broker Supported Grand Prize, of up to $100,000 will go to one of the finalists who received a vote from an Aviva broker.

Elmer Iseler Singers fill Pavilion with song
The Elmer Iseler Singers rehearse for their Haliburton concert on Sept. 26 at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion. The choral group has been delighting audiences since 1979, when it was founded by the late Dr. Elmer Iseler. The musical event was part of the Haliburton Concert Series and included songs such as Weinachten, The Lass of Richmond Hill, Amazing Grace and more. The choir was directed by Lydia Adams, far left.
